Part Six

New York Tribune

Graphic Section

May 16, 1920

One of the mother ships of Uncle Sam's navy, the U. S. S. Camden, and her nine undersea kittens—a formidable flotilla of Yankee submarines that have been a source of great interest the last two weeks to visitors to the Atlantic Fleet at anchor in the Hudson. The Camden and her family have been at anchor off the Seventies. Above—How one of our K type of submersibles looks when travel at tall

Dr. Royal S. Copeland, New York's efficient New York's efficient health commissioner, on the phone. Some one is wishing him bon voyage (he sailed a week ago yesterday for an eight weeks' trip abroad), and the "Doc" is thanking said some one via the new health phonecap, with which phonecap, with which he has had all the instruments in his depart-ment equipped, as the first move in his international campaign against disease epidem-ics. While overseas Dr. Copeland will attend various health conferences in England and on the Continent.

Pant Thompson

A smiling pair of honey-A smiling pair of honeymooners — the former Rachel Littleton and friend husband, Cornelius Vanderbilt jr.
Caught unawares by a persistent cameraman
while out for a stroll
down at Hot Springs, Va., the notable couple good naturedly face
the lens of publicity and easily manage to register happiness.

Central Newer

It's cherry blossom time in Japan, too—and here's the most famous spot in all that little empire—for the beautiful blossoms along the stream at Koganei, Tokyo, fabled and storied and sung about for centuries. Who among us doesn't envy the peasant in the photo as he wanders into a veritable Nipponese Arcadia with his gourd of saké over his shoulder?

Meet the feminine side of our Secretary of State's household — Frances, Kate, Mrs. Bainbridge Colby and Matabe. Mother and her three daughters seem most concerned that their pet terrier hold his Scottish anatomy still long enough to permit the Washington photographer to snap a

The very latest picture of Major General Leonard Wood, posed the other day at the Harvard Club, where he stayed when he visited the city last week to confer with Frank H. Hitchcock, his manager, over the progress of his campaign for the Republican Presidential nomination. Wide World nomination. Wide World

Bicycling certainly is returning to its own, at least in Canada. One Sunday recently some twelve hundred enthusiastic wheelmen in Toronto turned out for an all day run. Here are ronto turned out for an all day run. Here are two of the bike hikers mounted atop the old-fashioned high wheelers that used to be all the rage some thirty years ago. How many of the present generation could negotiate one of these direct drive pushmobiles?